Graced with a New Family

When we call each other brother and sister we are acknowledging our common Father and His grace in our new family. The labels are only real if they influence our behavior.

Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing ... [and] teaching them to observe all things that I have commanded you.

Matthew 28:19-20 NKJV

Christians committed to the grace-filled good life seek to fulfill Jesus' commission by caring for self, loving parents, practicing friendships, and disciplining children. All relationships exist in the commission. Jesus knew this would be a challenge, so He graciously added, "Lo, I am with you always."

Applying Grace

Mentally understanding

God's Grace is not the challenge. Reordering our lives in accordance with God's grace requires a commitment to daily
gracious living.

Good Gracious Homework:

- 1. What is one lesson you learned?
- 2. What is one way to change the way you pray?
- 3. How does grace call you to change your perspective of family life? What differences will this make in daily living?
- 4. We are called to share grace in all of our relationships. Think about ways to give and receive grace in relationships with brothers and sisters in the church.

Gracious Living

Accepting God's Grace in all Areas of Life

Part 5: Grace Filled Relationships 1

Review

What lesson did you apply from last week?

How did grace change the way you prayed?

Have you identified possible ways to declutter your calendar and obligations to make space for following grace?

Transitions are wonderful grace opportunities. How can you see grace in your current or next transition?

Grace-Filled Relationships: Part 1

New Family

New birth brings a new family.

All seek to do the Father's will.

Grace opens the door for 'whosoever will'.

New success standards guide the Family.

Graced Parentin

Start with being a graced adult and graced spouse. Center care for others in disciple making processes. Show grace to children like the Father does for you. Single parents can be graced also.

Kingdom Agents

New birth brings new perspectives. All statuses have kingdom potential. Life revolves around the King.

Think About It

Political parties fight to be seen as family focused. Graced disciples will never shift their focus off of their Lord. Being Christ centered is the grace-filled way to care for family without becoming family centered. Family centered living is idolatrous.

Are you living the good life? Sometimes it seems like everyone wants to reject limits and 'live outside the box' or fight against being average.

The grace-filled good life looks for ways to celebrate the reality of limits and live life to the fullest.

Gemologists grade diamonds on the three "C"s: cut, clarity, and color. A flaw in any or all of these areas will deduct from the perceived quality and market value of the stone.

Children of God see flaws in life as the place where grace can be experienced daily.

Rather than rejecting "imperfections" in our current place, graced places provide ways to celebrate holding 'these treasures in earthen vessels' (2 Cor . 4:7).
Living 'out of the box' is living out of grace. Are you beginning to celebrate your current place in life as the good and graced life?

Walk into God's Grace!

Walking in grace always reaches out to include others in your family. Consider ways to include others in your family and ways to be included in someone else's family. This is the wonderful way of grace! You are never alone.
